WHERE ARE WE THIS MONTH...

Australia

Today's Dance Tip

Your Core:

So you have taken all the classes and have bought all of the latest clothing and shoes that dancers wear. You're out there at a social and every time you try to pull some moves, something just doesn't seem right.

Footwork? Check! Leading/ Following? Check! array of dance steps? Check!. so what could it be?? Having the core engaged most of the time will certainly have an effect on your dancing. How do you do it I hear you ask? Well....

Quick and easy. Place your finger on your belly button. Don't move your finger or you hand and pull your belly button towards your spine with you tummy muscles. There you have now engaged your core.... Oh yeh I forgot. It will hurt and you wont be able to hold it for long in the beginning. Try it again and again and you will see a marked improvement in your dancing. Oh and don't forget to breath. LOL

New Venues

Coming back to Melbourne we have had many of our previous students email us and call us about what, where and when we are starting to teach and dance again. This is always a very heartwarming feeling to come home to and especially when we have been away for so long. It confirms to us the impact that we had been having on peoples lives and we are so grateful for the opportunity.

The first venue we would like to announce is the Eureka Hotel.

The Eureka Hotel, Est 1853 is located in the heart of Richmond. Remaining classic on the outside, and modern and comfortable on the inside. The front bar is comfortable, open and inviting – well suited for the locals and those visiting from neighbouring suburbs to enjoy the many delights on our drink and dining menus. The venue has been hiding one of Richmond's best kept secrets in the function space, aptly named The Eureka Room, with its own private entrance from Church Street. Set up with a generous sized stage, and premium viewing from every angle (a handy remnant left from its heyday as a cabaret theatre restaurant) the room is flanked by a large kitchen and a private bar. All this and we get to teach and dance in this amazing venue every week on a Sunday afternoon and a Monday Night.

SWIPE

COMING SOON...

27th November. Save this Date.

In a world gone mad with social media and electronica, we find ourselves more and more disconnected form our neighbour next door even though they are one of our “Friends” on Facebook or Instagram.

We see people achieving amazing results at work and in their schooling lives with start up companies and ideas that serve humanities needs more and more. We are constantly being given easier ways of getting places that we have researched on apps where people have been there before us and have rated with their opinion etc etc etc.

With every action there is always a reaction. With every Pay-Off there is always a Cost.

With humans increasingly spending their time getting computer savvy, one thing is slowly being washed away like the tide taking out a sand castle until you only see a faint shape of where it once stood proud on the beach. The thing I'm talking about is real life, real time social interaction between human beings, including the way we meet a potential partner. What I'm talking about is shaking someones hand, looking them in the eyes and saying "Hello, My name is..."

"But I get nervous, Don't know what to say, I freeze, Im scared they won't like me, Im scared they will judge me" Sound familiar?

Don't worry everyone has this little voice that has been there since you first opened your eyes and discovered that you were alive. This is something that has been around for centuries but is slowly dying and will be gone if we don't do something about it now.

SWIPE is a unique concept where singles get to come along and meet other singles through a completely and fully facilitated series of events. We promise that you will not be met with a "HOOK UP" because that's not what we are about. Our interest is to introduce you to another person with whom you will literally interact through a series of... Hhmmm? Better not give too much away hey?

Just remember this. You will not be seeing this on an APP any time soon.

We will be using the good old Telephone or email to connect. Then as soon as you get there, we show you how to really socialise once again. Don't know about you guys but Im pretty excited about this new concept. Think it deserves a brand new name. I know!! "Courting" Thats what I'll call it.

From the past.

Standing when someone walks in the room

Standing up out of your chair or seat was a normal thing when a Lady, a gentleman or a person older than yourself walked in the room in days gone by. It showed respect, and it showed that they were important enough for you to stop what you were doing and give them your attention.

Today, a gentleman will stand out of courtesy when someone enters their area or they know the person. A gentleman will stand when he is introduced to a guest. Standing up for other people shows that you are respectful of their presence, you care about them and most importantly you take good care of your character in society. Always remember people will see you as you present yourself to them and

So we really don't know how this happened but it has given Anna and I a little boost of confidence that even in our worst casual wear, at the end of a class and in a state where we were not very warmed up at all, people still want to see us dance. I personally am very humbled by this and assure you all that this is simply a small taste of things to come. If you don't really know what all the fuss was about then please click on the link below and check out the video that at last count went to 4300 views. Don't ask me how. Now its not a great big number but for a company that is only a couple of months old, well, we're pretty chuffed about it.

Oh By the way. if you have a Facebook QR scanner or know how to use one then the picture below doubles as a QR code for Facebook and should take you straight to our profile. If you simply click on the picture you will be taken to the video.

Please enjoy.

The Video

Oh and please stay tuned for the next exciting announcement.

We have found a new venue and you will never believe where Ciao for now...
